

PROSTATE 911

Prostate 911 contains stinging nettle which reduces symptoms of enlarged prostates.

The prostate is a penile organ that produces sperm-carrying fluid after ejaculation. Nevertheless, the prostate may get enlarged, particularly in elderly men. Nonetheless, this growth is not malignant and does not raise the chance of getting prostate cancer. The medical term for prostate enlargement is benign prostatic hyperplasia (BPH), and experts have not reached a consensus on the condition's true origin. However, other specialists assert that low testosterone levels and inadequate cell regeneration may contribute to the development of BPH. In addition, testicular removal at a younger age prevents the development of an enlarged prostate.

A prostate enlargement is not unpleasant, but it may produce a variety of discomforts. Early signs of BPH include a sensation of incomplete bladder emptying, frequent urination, particularly at night, a pulsating urine jet, trouble initiating urination, and straining to pee. Depending on the severity and age, there are a variety of treatment options for an enlarged prostate, including surgery and medication. Various dietary supplements now claim to alleviate the symptoms of an enlarged prostate.

What is Prostate 911 by PhytAge Labs?

PhytAge Labs is an American firm that manufactures a variety of nutritional formulations. In recent years, the company's popularity has increased due to the use of all-natural components in the formulation of its nutritional supplements. PhytAge Labs is an innovative firm that adheres to stringent production standards and is FDA-approved and GMP-certified.

Prostate 911 is a 100% organic, plant-based supplement that claims to improve urinary tract health and alleviate BPH symptoms. The manufacturer claims that all components are organic and scientifically proven to improve prostate health. Additionally, this medicine for males may improve their reproductive health.

How does Prostate 911 enhance male sexual health?

According to PhytAge Labs, a team of researchers picks all Prostate components with care. They are combined in clinically-approved doses to boost your reproductive health. In addition, unlike comparable medications on the market, Prostate 911 is ingestible since the tablets are small.

According to PhytAge Labs, Prostate 911's effects are best summarized in stages:

Two Prostate 911 tablets should be taken everyday. The components enter the bloodstream and begin to reduce the size of the prostate.

Prostate 911 promotes the synthesis of testosterone hormone, hence enhancing sexual functions such as increased sexual desire and better erections and ejaculation.

Urinary tract health is improved by Prostate 911 by combating infections and inflammations.

Regular use of Prostate 911 may increase blood flow around the reproductive organs, hence enhancing the health of penile cells.

PhytAge Labs cautions that this dietary supplement is not a "miracle in a bottle" Instead, you should use Prostate 911 tablets consistently for three to six months to improve your prostate health. Nevertheless, the effects of Prostate 911 tablets are permanent. Therefore, do not choose Prostate 911 if you need immediate and temporary results.

Key components in Prostate 911

Minerals (selenium, zinc, and copper) (selenium, zinc, and copper)

The majority of fresh and organic foods are mineral-rich. However, owing to dietary changes, the majority of people cannot get adequate minerals. Copper, zinc, and selenium are essential for preventing urinary tract infections. In addition, these minerals may reduce prostate enlargement and improve reproductive health. In addition, these trace elements relax the penile fiber muscles, resulting in urethral channel expansion and improved urine flow.

Saw Palmetto

Saw Palmetto is a frequent ingredient in supplements for male reproductive health. It contains chemicals that have been shown in clinical trials to lower the size of BPH. In addition, Saw Palmetto is excellent in increasing testosterone levels, hence enhancing users' sexual performance. In addition, antioxidant-rich studies indicate that this seasoning helps reduce urinary tract infections.

Leaf of stinging nettle

The stinging nettle is an organic, naturally occurring plant that is often consumed as a vegetable. Ancient sages employed stinging nettle to improve the reproductive health of males. Current research indicates that this component includes essential prostate-reducers and may thus be used to treat BPH symptoms. A combination of saw palmetto and stinging nettle may enhance sexual performance.

Powdered Pygeum Africanum Bark

The Pygeum Africanum, according to PhytAge Labs, is scientifically shown to minimize urinary tract issues, relieve inflammation-induced discomfort, and cure other BPH symptoms. In addition, Pygeum Africanum has been used historically to treat stomach discomfort, malaria, and fever. In addition, this component may stimulate male desire and enhance blood flow to the penile area, resulting in stronger, longer-lasting erections.

Broccoli leaf

According to the manufacturer of Prostate 911, broccoli leaf extract is vital for combating malignant cells since it contains potent antioxidants. In addition, broccoli leaf extract may reduce benign prostatic enlargements, hence alleviating BPH symptoms and promoting a healthy urinary system.

Vitamins (B6 and E) (B6 and E)

According to the creator of Prostate 911, vitamins are abundant in antimicrobial molecules. Additionally, vitamins B6 and E help minimize prostate enlargement and prevent urinary tract infections.

Other components include of Red Raspberry powder, Green tea leaf, Graviola Leaf, Cat's Claw, Bark, Tomato fruit powder, and Mushrooms (Maitake, Reishi, and shiitake).
