Understanding Piles

Piles, commonly known as hemorrhoids, are swollen veins in the anal and rectal region that can cause discomfort, pain, itching, and bleeding during bowel movements. They can be internal (inside the rectum) or external (around the anus) and range in severity.

Common Symptoms of Piles:

- Pain or discomfort when sitting or having bowel motions
- Rectal bleeding or blood-streaked stools
- Swelling or lumps around the anus
- Persistent itching or irritation

While piles can be caused by chronic constipation, low-fiber diets, or prolonged sitting, they are treatable with proper medical care.

Eat a High-Fiber Diet: Include fruits, vegetables, and whole grains to avoid constipation.

Stay Hydrated: Drink plenty of water daily to keep stools soft.

Avoid Straining: Don't push too hard during bowel movements, as this can worsen piles.

Exercise Regularly: Physical activity promotes healthy digestion and prevents prolonged sitting.

Maintain Hygiene: Keep the anal area clean and dry to reduce irritation.

When Should You Consult a Doctor?

If you experience any of the following symptoms, it's time to seek medical help from Yazh Healthcare:

- Persistent rectal bleeding or severe pain
- Lumps around the anus that don't resolve
